Voice over IP, Data and Network Security with Internet Access for your Business

Converge. Simply.

The days of buying separate data and voice networks for your business are over. IP connectivity delivers managed data networking to your location, voice calling and data with security services over the same connection. Compared to conventional network designs, one access line allows for significant savings. This simple approach brings together one or multiple locations, regardless of geographic location within the U.S., together in a scalable solution that can meet your current business needs and into the future. Truly, it's that simple.

Core Networking

Flexible managed networking is important for your changing business and IP application deployment. Access to the VPN is available at speeds that vary from T1.5 to 100 Mbps, depending upon your needs. We also offer Service Level Agreements to provide you assurances the network will be installed promptly and operate with optimum uptime.

Voice over IP and with Calling Options

Do you have to plan for multiple users to talk over the network at the same time? By taking advantage of network convergence, you can have your voice service ride on your managed virtual private network. We offer Voice over IP calling options in increments up to forty-six concurrent calls as well as IP Toll-Free options.

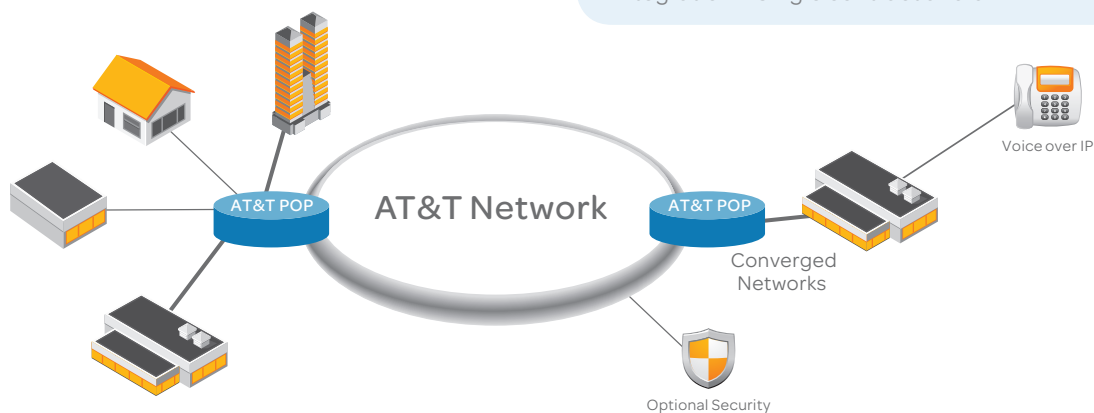

An additional Value Option: Network Security for your Data Solution

The VPN value bundle offers optional Network Security with your data solution: a centralized security policy with Internet access for all your U.S. locations. Network Security will provide seven usable IP (v4) addresses for your business use.
